

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
PUBLISHED BY THE DISPATCH PUBLISHING CO.
JOSEPH PULITZER, President

(Entered at the Post Office at St. Louis, Mo., as second-class mail matter.)

TERMS OF THE DAILY.

One year, postage paid, $1.00
Three months, $0.50
One month, $0.25
One week, $0.10
By the week (delivered by carrier), $0.05

Subscribers who fail to receive the paper may call for it or have it sent to them by replying to the address in this column.

THE WEEKLY.

Four issues, postage paid, $1.00
Five months, postage paid, $1.00
All business or news letters or information, $0.05

POST-DISPATCH,
615 and 617 Market street.

MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1884.

Subscribers leaving the city during the summer months, can have the Post-Dispatch mailed to them regularly at the usual rates, by leaving their address at the counting-room, No. 615-17, Market street.

Br all means show the country delegates the fire department in the afternoon and the machine at work at night.

The general idea in St. Louis about choosing delegates to the Chicago convention is that any fellow who is a nice fellow ought to go. When one comes to think of it this is not so bad an idea after all.

The St. Louis Democratic machine may be relied on to do some very fine work to-night. A Democratic primary, with the thermometer above 90° in the shade, is an occasion where the best citizens fail to demonstrate their superiority.

There seems to be a very general disposition to keep the attorney of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad company at the head of the State Democratic Committee. Shakespeare's prophetic vision must have taken this in when he said: 'O' Day and night! but this is won drus strange.'

We should like to entertain the country delegates, but there is no circus in town to-day. There is, however, a pretty good substitute for it in the Democratic primaries which are held to-night, and we urge on the rural wisdom so opportunely assembled here not to neglect the rare chance of taking a look at the urban Democracy while engaged in its great work of statesmanship. It is unique.

One of the most curious issues before the State Democratic Convention will be the issue of "endorsing" Gov. CRITTENDEN. This is to be done by sending him to the Chicago Convention to represent the State as a delegate at large. If CRITTENDEN represents anything in the politics of Missouri he represents not anything which Missouri should try to perpetuate, but many things which should try to forget.

COMPLAINTS come to us from many parts of the city that the fire cracker fiend could not wait until the glorious Fourth before beginning to violate the city ordinances, but started in with premature lawlessness on Saturday and Sunday night. We hesitate to believe that all of the policemen in the city are deaf, and yet thus far no policeman has heard the disturbance. Can it be that the whole force is occupied with statesmanship? It is unique.

We do not object to recognizing Mr. O'DAY by keeping him as chairman of the State Committee, nor to recognizing Mr. SCULLIN by putting him on the National Committee, nor Mr. MASON by sending him to Chicago as the workingman's delegate, but we do object to a cruel discrimination which rewards these servants of the people and which leaves that broad-gauge patriot MAXON out in the cold. The very ties of the street railroads cry out against such cruelty.

It is hardly worth while speculating on MARDUKE's strength when so short an interval will put an end to all speculations; but his canvas thus far shows one thing. It shows that the war is over and that the bugaboo of a Confederate record no longer terrifies anybody. It is a great gain for the cause of politics when a candidate's success is determined by his present merit and fitness, not by the part he took in a controversy which was finally settled twenty years ago.

JUNE is drawing to a close, and instead of offering a close to the session, it looks as if Congress had as much work before it now as it had when the month opened. One point has been settled, and that is that no campaign thunder is going to be manufactured this session. The Republicans need have no fear that the Democrats will abuse their strength in the House to make party capital for campaign purposes. The Democratic majority has thus far a close copy of the previous Democratic majority, more of a danger than of assistance to the party.

The great and patriotic purpose for which a Democratic Convention of the State of Missouri is held is to vindicate those eminent statesmen CRITTENDEN, O'DAY, SCULLIN, and the Board of Police Commissioners of the city of St. Louis. Incidentally a few nominations may be held; the government of the State for the next four years may be decided; the standing of Missouri before the National Convention may be established, but the real purpose of the convention is deeper and mightier. It is to vindicate the statesmen of Missouri, and to give to the world assurance that when this commonwealth has great men she knows it.

Texas will probably be some pretty rough work done at the Democratic primaries to-night, and the Globe-Democrat will probably improve the occasion as it did on Sunday to set up the cry of "Poor Old Missouri," and hold the State with its Democratic majority responsible. The truth of the matter is that the ward bureaucracy which pervades our local politics is purely local. It has nothing whatever in common with the Democracy of the State, and it flourishes quite as rankly in the party to which the Globe-Democrat belongs, and which elected the Mayor, as it does in the Democratic party. We may add that the local bureaucracy of the Democrats has been greatly strengthened by the cordial and willing support extended to it by the Globe-Democrat in the cause of the Solid Seven.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

Upon the State Convention meeting in this city to-morrow devolves the very important duty of selecting a delegation that will fully and unmistakably represent the character, the political sentiments and the honest and patriotic aims of the masses composing the great organization that controls Missouri by a majority of over 80,000 votes. These members who come here to advance the interests of personal friends or of this or that clique of politicians, are losing sight of a far more important object.

Missouri is known to be one of the most reliable as well as one of the greatest and most progressive of the Democratic States, and the best thing we can do at Chicago is to show in that great National assembly just what Missouri Democracy is, what it is there for and what it is here for. In a scramble of cliques and personal favoritism it is possible that the Chicago delegation may be composed of men who represent Mr. JAY GOULD and his corporation allies rather than the people of Missouri, or of men who represent the stains rather than the bright blazonry of the Democratic machine.

It is proposed, for instance, to recognize the services of Mr. JOHN O'DAY as chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and to endorse the administration of Gov. CRITTENDEN by sending both of them to Chicago as delegates for the State at large. O'DAY is notoriously a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world. The pastor, to try her, made answer, "Ahlins, two hundred,"—(Perhaps two hundred,) "Eh, sir," said the old woman, "see money go many as that."

HISALUTIN.

From the Boston Herald. (Ind.)

According to Mr. Henry Faxon, the Democratic party is a "party of scalawags," and to be identified with it is "a sufficient reason to convince any one that the party's principles are really bad,"

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his opinion, would be sent out to represent the interests of the world.

Mr. Faxon is a personalist, and particularly in his

CONTINUED.

The Western-Eastern Series in the American Association.

Saturday and Sunday Games—Departure of the Unions—Diamond Chips—Sporting Notes and Sundries.

The third act of the base-ball drama in which the clubs of the American Association are the actors opened on Saturday in a most interesting manner. The Mets were unfortunate in having their eleven-game record at Louisville, but as the protest was their own they have no room to growl. Secretary Wilcox yesterday telegraphed to the effect that the game was null and void and no doubt it will be played off to-day, as will the St. Louis and Washington postponed game. Perhaps the most interesting series in progress, particularly so to St. Louis, is the one between Cincinnati and the Metropolitans and Louisville. The other is bound to drop down in the scale, while the others are the Baltimores, who will keep in second place for the present and St. Louis will fall into third, with Cincinnati just a "jester" behind.

At the half of the week will compound the interest. The St. Louis will entertain the Athletics June 26, 27 and 28. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. On the 26th the two leaders of the West will be engaged; also the Baltimores and Indians, the Louisville and Washington, the Toledo and Peoria, and the Cincinnati and the Metropolitans. The chances are that the week's record will close with either Louisville or Baltimore in the lead, in the chance in favor of the Baltimores. The strength of the movement is great and exciting every week, and will probably continue to do so. Such ball playing has never been seen in this country and the excitement of the game is the figures to date are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Total	Average
Metropolitans	20	10	30	.667
St. Louis	20	12	32	.625
Baltimore	21	12	33	.636
Unions	22	13	35	.629
Athletic	23	14	37	.622
Indians	23	15	38	.605
Washington	23	15	38	.605
Pittsburgh	21	27	38	.553
Toledo	20	26	36	.556
Wash.	8	25	33	.242
Ind.	8	25	33	.242

Local Base-Ball.

On Saturday afternoon the St. Louis Browns played their reception game, after an absence of over five weeks, and a magnificent attendance was present to greet them. The ladies were out in full force, and they were presented with handsome card souvenirs, designed by Mr. Morris, and the members of the association, having photographs of the players and officers of the club. The game was with the Washington Club, and they achieved a most creditable victory by a score of 5 to 4. The pitchers were good, and the game was a hard-fought one. Three chances were lost by St. Louis by desperate base running and wild coaching, for rung general, Nick, trying at home twice in the most foolish manner, and the Browns taking a strong lead at the beginning and keeping it to the end. The last two games were won by the Browns, and the Washington field went all to pieces, not having the confidence they exhibited in supporting Barr. The official count was 10 to 1.

At the Union Park the St. Louis and Chicago Unions met again on Saturday. The batting was about even, but the home team did the best, finishing with a score of 6 to 4. Yesterday, at the Union Park, the result was another very easy victory for St. Louis, who won by a score of 7 to 2. The game was a hard-fought one, but the batting record showed almost double for St. Louis, hence the result. At both games the attendance was very large.

Games Saturday and Yesterday.

The St. Louis and Washington games in the American Association series, alluded to elsewhere, resulted on Saturday in a defeat for the home club by a score of 5 to 4. On yesterday they took out their revenge on their visitors, scooping them by a score of 12 to 8. In the other American Association series resumed the results at Cincinnati, Cincinnati 5, Pittsburgh 0; at Louisville, Metas 4, Louisville 1; at St. Louis, 10, 4; at Washington, 10, 4; at Columbus, Columbus 18, Brooklyn 1; at Toledo, Baltimore 10. Yesterday the series was continued. Cincinnati beat Brooklyn 10, and the Athletics, whom they beat by a score of 7 to 1; Columbus beat Brooklyn by a score of 8 to 2, and the Metas beat the Indians by a score of 4 to 2. At Toledo they play no Sunday game.

In the Union Association series the results on Saturday, St. Louis 10, Cincinnati 10; at Washington, 4, Boston; Philadelphia 11, Baltimore 9. Yesterday the result was: St. Louis 10, Chicago 6, this being the only game played in that series.

St. Louis vs. Washington.

The last game for the present between the above clubs will take place at Sportsman's Park to-morrow afternoon at 4 p.m. Barr will pitch for the Washington, and probably Davis for St. Louis. This will insure a good game and upon more even terms.

The Unions' Departure.

The St. Louis Unions left last night to be absent about seven weeks. They will go direct to Philadelphia, and there continue their series with the Keystones. In a few days a meeting of the association will be held at Philadelphia to determine the schedule, as will be necessary owing to the disbanding of the Altonas and the admission of the Kansas Citys.

The Late Frank Pidgeon.

The late Frank Pidgeon occupied a position in the earlier history of base-ball which makes him a very prominent figure to all who go back many years in their knowledge of the game. To those the Clipper's article on his life and death will be interesting. Frank Pidgeon was born in 1840, at New York, the son of Frank Pidgeon, the veteran pitcher of the old Eckford Club of Brooklyn, on June 12, east quite a few years ago. He died in 1883, at the age of 43. He had been away from Brooklyn for many years, he was still remembered by the members of his old club, who it was quite a shock to them when on Friday last the news paper announced the sad account of his shocking death on the railroad track. He had only recently become a member of the Harvard Club of New York, for which he had a room at Jerome there, and he removed a few weeks ago to town from Saugeens, where he had resided for several years. He died at his home in New York, and he was buried between High Bridge and the bridge of the Northern Railroad. An employee of the Grand Central and Northern Company, said Mr. Pidgeon walking along the track in some such drowsy, listless, head bowed, apparently absorbed in thought, as the Croton train approached, which had the Grand Central and Northern on its back. He was struck by the engine and he failed to hear the warning shouts and whistles. He was struck right in the face by the engine and he was killed. He had for many years an extensive contract with Pidgeon, the old Eckford Club of Brooklyn, the man who represented that once well-known name in the game. He was as tall as in middle age, and very much more muscular, and was known only among those engaged in the ship and yacht building trades, and among people devoted to the sea. He had a large family, and was a member of the Eckford Club in 1853, and when its first president he offered that he also was creditably filled in 1860, 1861 and 1868, while in 1868 he served the club in the capacity of vice-president. He was a member of the Eckford Club during its first five seasons, and was one of three players who represented that once well-known name in the game. He was a student of the art of base-ball, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners." He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

He had a large family, and he removed a few weeks ago to town from Saugeens, where he had resided for several years. He died at his home in New York, and he was buried between High Bridge and the bridge of the Northern Railroad. An employee of the Grand Central and Northern Company, said Mr. Pidgeon walking along the track in some such drowsy, listless, head bowed, apparently absorbed in thought, as the Croton train approached, which had the Grand Central and Northern on its back. He was struck by the engine and he failed to hear the warning shouts and whistles. He was struck right in the face by the engine and he was killed. He had for many years an extensive contract with Pidgeon, the old Eckford Club of Brooklyn, the man who represented that once well-known name in the game. He was as tall as in middle age, and very much more muscular, and was known only among those engaged in the ship and yacht building trades, and among people devoted to the sea. He had a large family, and was a member of the Eckford Club in 1853, and when its first president he offered that he also was creditably filled in 1860, 1861 and 1868, while in 1868 he served the club in the capacity of vice-president. He was a member of the Eckford Club during its first five seasons, and was one of three players who represented that once well-known name in the game. He was a student of the art of base-ball, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round the "Horn" and remained with the historic base-ball club of the California and returned again by way of the Isthmus, and returned overland. He was a student of science, art and literature, and a fine man. Pidgeon, the son of the old Eckford Club, and the son of some of his friends, and he got the credit of being the inventor of the only successful steam train, and, as a result, he was a man of considerable wealth. He was a man of great personal magnetism, and the master of models was highly praised and always bound to impress by the well-known traits exhibited.

Pidgeon was one of the old "forty-niners."

He went to California round

LODGE NOTICES.

WANTED—Fifteen men to help at the Lodge, No. 262, A. F. & A. M. will be required to be on duty at all times. Mail, every 2d and Market st., this Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. Visitors, brothers from N. S. W. SWEETENY.

GOLI—DOWN LODGE, No. 62, K. of P. Hall, annual meeting Franklin av. and 11th st. Tuesday evening, 8th inst., at 8 o'clock. Eleventh annual meeting, 10th inst., at 8 o'clock. No meeting brothers cordially invited. By order of K. of P. R. R. C. C.

HOME LODGE NO. 182.—The officers and members of the Home Lodge, K. of P., are here to invite you to attend next regular meeting. Tuesday evening, June 24, at 8 o'clock. There will be intervals for the singing of hymns. The brothers cordially invited. By order of K. of P. R. R. C. C.

MEMPHIS ENCLAVE, No. 28, K. of P. M. will visit this encampment as special deputy of the state of Missouri, state encampment in 1884. A. H. WOERDNER, Scribner.

SITUATIONS WANTED—MALE.

Bookkeepers.

WANTED—Situation by young lady as book-keeper, who has had a thorough knowledge of books. Ad. H. 15, this office.

WANTED—Experienced business man, bookkeeper and correspondent seeks work. Ad. H. 21, this office.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED—A situation to travel on the road, by an experienced salesman; best of ref. furnished. J. 19, this office.

WANTED—By an accomplished salesman, a situation in whole or dry goods house; has had 10 years' experience, best refs. given. Address B. B. this office.

WANTED—By a young man, a situation as an experienced house boy in railroad car or express house, best of references furnished. Add. W. 24, this office.

WANTED—Situation to do office work or collecting by a man of experience; city refs. R. 24, this office.

WANTED—Situation of any kind by a good clerk and correspondent, willing to do anything; best refs. G. 26, this office.

WANTED—Position by a first-class clerk in grocery store; can furnish good city references. C. 26, this office. 27

The Trades.

WANTED—Situation by first-class drivers: takes good care of horses and not afraid of hard work. Ad. P. 21, this office.

WANTED—An experienced house painter; understands stage work. D. W. 20, this office.

WANTED—Situation by a first-class German baker. H. 18, this office.

WANTED—By a young man, a situation to learn the carpenter or millwright trade; has experience; strong, willing and reliable. N. 24, this office.

WANTED—To finish harbor trade with a good man; has had one year's experience. Ad. Franklin, D. 26, this office.

Coachmen and Drivers.

WANTED—A careful driver wishes a situation; understands horses and not afraid of work. Ad. P. 24, this office. 28

Stenographers.

WANTED—By a stenographer, writing 125 words per minute; good pay. Ad. H. 20, this office.

WANTED—Situation as a typewriter, shorthand and typewriter; would like a place as substitute during summer months. Ad. H. 20, this office. 24

Boys.

WANTED—A boy of 14, wishes a place to learn job printing. Ad. O. 23, this office. 24

Miscellaneous.

WANTED—Situation by a practical and energetic boy; not afraid of hard work; willing to work for the interest of his employer in all respects; good pay; reference from last employer. N. 27, this office. 24

WANTED—Employment to attend to and care for horses, and to be generally useful about the place; good pay. Ad. 21, this office. 24

WANTED—Situation as time-keeper or foreman by middle-aged man; understands hard work and also book-keeping. G. 26, this office. 24

WANTED—By a correspondent, experienced shorthand writer, operator and book-keeper; a situation. Speak and write French and German; best of references; employer, own type writer. Ad. D. 25, this office. 24

WANTED—Situation as second bartender. Address H. 24, this office. 24

WANTED—A reliable young man as traveling or local agent for some good firm; understands it well. Ad. H. 24, this office. 24

WANTED—A reliable young man; willing to do any work where chance is ripe. Please address H. 24, this office. 24

WANTED—A young man would like to get in a fraternal organization; where he could learn the business. Ad. L. 23, this office. 24

WANTED—Young man wishes a position as watchman, night or porter; can give refs. Ad. Y. 24, this office. 24

WANTED—A diligent German, some 4 years in this business; please inquire at Mr. Schmid's, 305 Olive st., third floor. 24

WANTED—Honest and willing young man; 17 wishes a good trade. W. 23, this office. 24

WANTED—Position by two well-experienced and posted men to work in a wheat machine; can bring best of refs. Ad. 21, this office. 24

WANTED—A good man wants a situation of any kind; would be willing to work for low wages. F. 26, this office. 24

HELP WANTED—MALE.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED—Employment to association 400 Olive st. We can place accounts of all nationalities, in all manner of positions as book-keepers and assistants, reliable accountants, book-keepers, auditors, accountants of all kinds; also watchmen, concierges, bartenders, porters, janitors, engineers, machinists, conductors, etc. Parties wishing to place accounts, please apply to the association by applying direct to us. Business houses wanting help and orders to above Association. No charge. 24

WANTED—A good girl to work in a restaurant; fair working; very pleasant address and stage a long time in one place. A. 23, this office. 24

Waiters.

WANTED—Five experienced waiters. Apply at Urig's, 240 Olive st. 24

The Trades.

STOVE-PLATE—Molders; chip fare; apply at once. Commercial Employment Agency, 22, 11th st., room 200.

WANTED—Men and boys to sell the Superior sticky fly paper; very paper; good pay. 2000 Lincoln.

WANTED—A first class colored barber. Apply to E. S. Vaughn, Ironstone, No. 208.

WANTED—An experienced editor and one Tapioca bed burner at Illinois Shoe Co., corner 6th and Walnut st. 24

WANTED—One master and one helper on men's work; to make men's shirts, collars, etc. Apply to Wm. Bryan, Brown Shoe Co., cor. 8th and Walnut st. 24

WANTED—One off cutter at Bryan-Brown Shoe Company, cor. 8th and Walnut st. 24

WANTED—A woman who is good at ironing, and young house girls. 2015 Pine st. 24

WANTED—Good steady girl to wash dishes. Bridge restaurant. 24

WANTED—A good woman cook. 409 5th st. 24

Laborers.

WANTED—Italian laborers for St. Paul; cheap fare. Commercial Employment Agency, 22, 11th st., room 200.

WANTED—100 laborers to work on repairs of railroad, etc. D. 24, this office. 24

WANTED—Two men and a team at Collins st., and Franklin av.; brick for sale. Callahan & Greenfield.

Boys.

WANTED—Immediately 300 or 1000 boys to sell the Evening Chronicle on the street, for themselves or for the week. Apply to Collins st., 14th and 15th st. 24

WANTED—Will sticky fly paper; who has big profits; big profit. Ad. 2012 Locust st. 24

WANTED—The highest price paid for old stamps or postage stamps. Address Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

WANTED—Day to day feed Peacock press. Chas. Smith & Co., 221 Olive st., room 17. 24

WANTED—A boy 10 or 12 for restaurant. 204 Market st. 24

WANTED—To have a street boy at grocery store. 2000 Page av. 24

WANTED—A street boy for farm work. Apply to Mr. H. H. Franklin, 201 Franklin av. 24

WANTED—Office boy at Dr. J. Whitaker's office. 207 N. Broadway. 24

Miscellaneous.

WANTED—Five men to help at the Lodge, No. 400 Olive st. We can place accounts of all nationalities, in all manner of positions as book-keepers and assistants, reliable accountants, book-keepers, auditors, porters, janitors, engineers, machinists, conductors, etc. Parties wishing to place accounts, please apply to the association by applying direct to us. Business houses wanting help and orders to above Association. No charge. 24

WANTED—Good girl to work in a restaurant; fair working; very pleasant address and stage a long time in one place. A. 23, this office. 24

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED—Situation by experienced colored nurse, at the Royal Hotel, 201 Franklin av. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse by a healthy woman, 20 years old, to work in a restaurant. Call 201 N. 11th st. 24

WANTED—By an experienced German nurse girl, situation with family traveling. Ad. 50 Targe st. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

Laundresses.

WANTED—Steady woman wants permanent place as cook and wash woman; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

WANTED—Situation as cook, wash and iron in a small family. B. 27, this office. 24

Miscellaneous.

WANTED—Situation by experienced colored nurse, at the Royal Hotel, 201 Franklin av. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse by a healthy woman, 20 years old, to work in a restaurant. Call 201 N. 11th st. 24

WANTED—By an experienced German nurse girl, situation with family traveling. Ad. 50 Targe st. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED—Situation by a young girl, 20 years old, to work in a restaurant. Call 201 N. 11th st. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

Laundresses.

WANTED—Steady woman wants permanent place as cook and wash woman; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse by a healthy woman, 20 years old, to work in a restaurant. Call 201 N. 11th st. 24

WANTED—By an experienced German nurse girl, situation with family traveling. Ad. 50 Targe st. 24

WANTED—Situation as nurse; no objection to travel; by young girl. Call 224 N. High st. (old 13th). 24

Miscellaneous.

WANTED—Five men to help at the Lodge, No. 400 Olive st. We can place accounts of all nationalities, in all manner of positions as book-keepers and assistants, reliable accountants, book-keepers, auditors, porters, janitors, engineers, machinists, conductors, etc. Parties wishing to place accounts, please apply to the association by applying direct to us. Business houses wanting help and orders to above Association. No charge. 24

WANTED—Engagements in families to cut and fit ladies' dresses; corsets, etc. Ad. P. 26, this office.

AGENTS WANTED.

LADIES' LIFE will be profitable to agents. Prospects ready. Apply to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

WANTED—Engagements by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

WANTED—Engagements by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—Situation by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

WANTED—Situation by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—Situation by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

WANTED—Situation by a young lady as book-keeper, and other work. Send to Chas. H. Baker, No. 112, 6th and 11th st. 24

